Directions to BOMA International offices in Washington, DC:

BOMA is located on the 8th floor of 1101 15th Street, NW in downtown DC - on the Northeast corner of 15th and L Streets. Nearby landmarks include MacPherson Square Park just a block south, the White House and LaFayette Park located 2 blocks south, the Washington Post building right across the street, and the NAHB National Housing Center just one block north. The 1101 building does NOT require sign-in and clearance for visitors - BOMA is the only tenant on the 8th floor, and you'll see the receptionist desk when you exit the elevators.

From Reagan National, make your way to downtown DC by cab or Metro. There is a Metro station at National Airport within a short walk from your gate or baggage claim. Take the Blue Line to MacPherson Square station and exit on the Vermont Ave./White House side - that will put you at the intersection of I and 15th Streets. BOMA offices are 2 blocks straight north up 15th Street from the MacPherson Square station.

From Dulles or Baltimore-Washington Airports, make your way to downtown DC by cab, Washington Flyer bus, or whatever other preferred mode of travel that's available. From Dulles, the cab ride is about $50 and it's something similar from BWI. Washington Flyer buses, Super Shuttle, and other shuttle services are quite a bit less but not as fast. Amtrak also has service from BWI to Union Station in DC, but that's probably the slowest way to get to DC - you have to take a bus to get to Amtrak's BWI station and you'll have to check schedules with Amtrak, though there's a train coming down the Northeast Corridor route just about every hour during the day. Once at Union Station, you'll then have to take a cab or Metro to BOMA's offices.
